

AWARENESS RAISING RESULTS IN CHILD PROTECTION POLICY

Children advocating, mobilizing, raising awareness, informing and communicating.

Sub-Saharan Africa: Democratic Republic of Congo

"During the confinement period, we launched several awareness-raising projects for the prevention and monitoring of cases of abuse against children in households. After the series of activities that we carried out, we concluded that most parents limit or design their roles only to meet the needs of children (education, health care) without taking into account the affective aspects and understanding children, which explains the many cases of abuse identified during this period, given that parents were forced to spend most of their time with the children during confinement. After all these activities, we decided to put in place a child protection policy within our organization and to popularize it with beneficiaries and children."
