

CHILDREN BRIDGING CHILDREN WITH PROTECTION SERVICES

Children engaging and supporting their peers, including reaching the most vulnerable

Europe and Others: Spain

In Spain, "Anar España", a national child helpline that has been active for 27 years has seen how influential peer support is when it comes to preventing and reporting violence: "A significant majority gets to know the helpline when referred to it by a friend. This means that children are aware of their friends' support needs: children talk. They don't have much support, but those who support them the most are their friends and peers"
